

Norris Offers Bill To Change Method of Naming President

By DON J. KIRKLEY.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—To permit what he termed a "truer expression of the people's will" in selecting their president and vice president, Senator George W. Norris, Republican, Nebraska, today re-introduced his proposal for independent candidates and abolition of the electoral college.

"I'm afraid," he conceded, "it will have the opposition of every political party and every boss in the country."

A similar proposal has been introduced in the house by Representative Lea, Democrat, California. For Norris its introduction was his fifth attempt in as many sessions of congress to obtain enactment of the change.

In brief, the Norris amendment provides that any candidate for the presidency must be designated on state ballots. Each state would have as many presidential votes as it has members of congress.

In this respect, it is like the electoral college—but here is the big change: Instead of the candidate who got the majority of the popular vote securing all the presidential vote, he would receive only the proportion that his majority represented.

The popular vote would be certified by the states to a joint session of

President Also Eats 7 1-2c Economy Lunch

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt had an economy 7 1-2-cent luncheon today and declared it "good."

It was served Mrs. Roosevelt in the executive mansion under a menu prepared by the home economics department of Cornell University.

Not to be outdone, the president had the same luncheon sent over to him at his desk in the executive office. He ate it all.

The cost was estimated at 7 1-2 cents per person. It included hot stuffed eggs, with tomato sauce, mashed potatoes, prune pudding, bread and coffee.

congress, which would add up the presidential votes and the person with the largest number be declared president.

In case of a tie, the house would decide between the two, each state to have one vote in the balloting. The senate would do the same in case of a vice presidential tie.

Farm Board's Losses Set at $350,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Henry Morgenthau Jr., new farm board chairman, today estimated losses from the board's stabilization and other operations during the Hoover administration at about $350,000,000.

Of the original $500,000,000 fund placed in the hands of the board, Morgenthau explained there is a balance of about $38,000,000 in cash and "good loans" which he said former Chairman James C. Stone, who retired March 4, had estimated would bring the assets of the board to from $140,000,000 to $150,000,000.

In revealing portions of the new administration's policy, Morgenthau presented a detailed analysis of its cotton operations, which he said indicated a loss to date for that commodity of $159,254,340. He said he intends to make detailed examinations of board losses on wheat and other commodities "as soon as possible."

GOODRICH WILL SELL ONLY 2 TIRE LINES

AKRON, Ohio, March 21.—J. D. Tew, president of the B. F. Goodrich Company, today released the following statement:

"The B. F. Goodrich Company is announcing today what is believed to be a fundamental move to eventually correct the chaotic conditions prevailing in the distribution of tires. Briefly, we are announcing a policy under which we shall market only two lines of tires carrying the Goodrich name—the Goodrich Silvertown and the Goodrich Cavalier.

"We are eliminating all other lines and types of Goodrich tires. Obviously this new program materially simplifies the problems facing the manufacturer and the dealer by the elimination of duplicated manufacturing and distributing procedures. This policy reduces by approximately 35 per cent the sizes and types of tires required under present conditions, with a corresponding reduction in inventory investments by the manufacturer as well as the dealer.

"It also permits the dealer to carry a complete stock in two lines instead of four or more to meet adequately the demands. It is our opinion that the tire-using public has been greatly confused by the multiplicity of quantities and prices and that this plan will not only clarify and simplify our problems and that of our dealers, but also will place more clearly in the mind of the buying public the relative merits of tires by the elimination of all but two lines.

"Factory and distributing costs will be materially reduced, which eventually should benefit the employee, the security holder, the dealer and general public. We feel that if this policy is followed throughout the industry, reasonable profits should be realized in the not too distant future. With the announcement of two lines of Goodrich tires, due to prices now prevailing, it is necessary for us to price these two lines lower than our present corresponding lists. We firmly believe, however, that the principle of two lines is sound, that the manufacturing and distributing costs obviously will be lower, and that the results from the adoption of such a policy will be beneficial to all concerned. We are notifying our field organization as well as our dealers in detail of our plan, which is to be effective as of March 21."

Text of Roosevelt's Plan To Aid Nation's Jobless

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today transmitted to congress the following message on unemployment relief:

To the congress:

It is essential to our recovery program that measures immediately be enacted aimed at unemployment relief. A direct attack in this problem suggests three types of legislation. The first is the enrollment of workers now by the federal government for such public employment as can be quickly started and will not interfere with the demand for or the proper standard of normal employment.

The second is grants to states for relief work.

The third extends to a broad public work labor-creating program.

With reference to the latter, I am now studying the many projects suggested and the financial questions involved. I shall make recommendations to the congress presently.

In regard to states for relief work, I advise you that the remainder of the appropriation of last year will last until May.

Therefore, and because a continuance of federal aid is still a definite necessity for many states, a further appropriation must be made before the end of this special session.

I find a clear need for some simple federal machinery to co-ordinate and check these grants of aid. I am, therefore, asking that you establish the office of federal relief administrator, whose duty it will be to scan requests for grants and to check the efficiency and wisdom of their use.

The first of these measures which I have enumerated, however, can and should be immediately enacted. I propose to create a civilian conservation corps to be used in simple work, not interfering with normal employment and confining itself to forestry, the prevention of soil erosion, flood control and similar projects. I call your attention to the fact that this type of work is of definite, practical value, not only through the prevention of great financial loss, but also as a means of creating future national wealth. This is brought home by the news we are receiving today of vast damage caused by floods on the Ohio and other rivers.

Control, and direction of such can be carried on by existing machinery of the departments of labor, agriculture, war and interior.

I estimate that 250,000 men can be given temporary employment by early summer if you give me authority to proceed within the next two weeks. I ask no new funds at this time.

The use of unobligated funds, now appropriated for public works, will be sufficient for several months. This enterprise is an established part of our national policy. It will conserve our precious national resources. It will pay dividends to the present and future generations. It will make improvements in national and state domains which have been largely forgotten in the past few years of industrial development.

More important, however, than the material gains will be the moral and spiritual value of such work. The present and future generations of Americans, who are now walking the streets and receiving private or public relief, would infinitely prefer to work. We can take a vast army of these unemployed out into beautiful surroundings. We can eliminate to some extent at least, the threat that enforced idleness brings to spiritual and moral stability. It is not a panacea for all the employment but it is an essential step in this emergency. I ask its adoption.

(Signed)

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Vinson Urges Building Of Ships To Aid Jobless

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, today said he was working on a plan to supplement President Roosevelt's reforestation program to aid unemployment by recommending to congress the building of new ships that will permit an expenditure of some $80,000,000 a year over a period of 10 years. "I have nothing definite to announce at this time," he said, "but I have already made considerable progress toward the end I am seeking."

Mr. Vinson, who is chairman of the house naval affairs committee, believes that the building of new ships will be of material aid to the president's program for unemployment relief because out of every dollar appropriated for ship construction 85 cents is expended to compensate labor.

SIMS ASKS VETO ON DRUID HILLS INCORPORATION

Veto of the Druid Hills charter bill has been asked of Governor Eugene Talmadge by Senator Walter A. Sims, of Atlanta, on the ground that there is no need of a new city between Atlanta and Decatur.

Senator Sims, in a letter to the governor, charges that he was opposed to the bill and that it was passed by the senate during his absence from the chamber in attending a committee meeting. J. Lawrence McCord, businessman, said that more than 50 property owners living south of Ponce de Leon and east of Moreland avenue have joined him in protesting against the proposed incorporation. Although the petition was not circulated in the rest of Druid Hills, many other residents have announced opposition to the charter, McCord said.

Mayor James I. Key made public a letter to McCord pointing out that high rates of taxation have resulted in cases where small municipalities have been incorporated near Atlanta and have resulted in Atlanta taking over Oakland City, Edgewood, Kirkwood, West End, and East Lake.

Mayor Key said that creation of a city of Druid Hills probably would entail heavy tax burdens on property owners of that section.

According to descriptions given Detectives Hilderbrand and Woodward the negroes ranged from 12 to 16 years of age. The oldest entered the store first, followed by the next oldest, and on down to the youngest. All wore handkerchiefs over their faces and two carried pistols. They escaped.

The proceedings were instituted Monday and Judge Moore ordered the dance operators to post bond pending the obtaining of any judgments by the plaintiffs. He gave the plaintiffs until Tuesday morning to file claims, but as no claims were filed the entire proceeding was dismissed and the court costs assessed against the 12 former employees.

REICHSTAG MEETS TO SOUND KNEEL OF REPUBLICANISM

ting aside the present constitution and a new constitution, considered sacred and fundamental in that constitution.

The adoption of this enabling act will mean that for four years democracy will be extinguished in Germany in fact as well as in name, and that a new constitution on authoritarian lines will be handed to the German nation.

Tonight bonfires flared and torchlight parades were set in motion in all cities and hamlets as a sign of national jubilation.

In Berlin, Nazi youths paraded through the streets singing their battle song: "When hand grenades burst all around, Our heart's contentment knows no bound."

Kaiser's Seat Vacant. Throughout the day there were numerous evidences of the eclipse of republicanism. At the Potsdam ceremony, the chair of former Kaiser Wilhelm II was left symbolically vacant in the royal box occupied by Hohenzollern princes. At the beginning and end of the exercises, President Von Hindenburg, with his field marshal's baton, saluted the crown prince and other members of the house that once ruled the reich.

The garrison church was filled with members of the reichstag, the diplomatic corps, generals and admirals who served in the World War and veterans of conflicts as far back as the War of 1864.

The president read his brief address without recourse to spectacles. The manuscript was written by hand in big black letters.

"Weighty and manifold duties await you," he said. "I know the chancellor and cabinet face with determination the difficult problems to be solved at home and abroad. I hope the members of the new reichstag place themselves loyally behind the government."

Prussia's Crisis. "The place where we stand recalls old Prussia, which became great through fear of God, devotion to duty, unflinching courage and self-denying patriotism."

"Thus it united the German people, May the present generation, freeing it from selfish party hatreds, and joining us together in a national rebirth of the soul for the new unified, free and proud Germany."

In a speech of response, Chancellor Hitler rejected the charge of German war guilt declared by the peace makers, and declared that neither the former emperor nor the government desired the conflict. He appealed to the people to rally behind President Von Hindenburg, describing the venerable field marshal as "the symbol of the indestructible life of the German nation."

"For years heavy burdens have pressed upon our people," the chancellor said. "After a period of proud revival, poverty and distress have visited us once more."

THE temporary suspension of the widespread financial system of our country has created new and complicated problems for both the business organization and the individual.

Breaking the great dam of suspended checks and drafts, relayed from hundreds of different points, is the common job of every one who can help. Business is anxious to go places and do things, but the cumulus of the holiday week must be cleared away first.

The time has passed when individualistic effort should prevail. Today, with a great sense of dependence one on another, every effort should be a community effort, based on the responsibility of mutual helpfulness in solving our common problems.

In this spirit, our bank wants to cooperate in every way possible. If you have a problem, feel perfectly free to come in and talk it over.

The C & S philosophy is and always will be this—"The success of the individual and the community is the success of the bank."

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 22, 1933.

THE AUTO TAG SITUATION.

Georgia is paying the piper today in an admittedly bad situation incident to the sale of license tags for all types of motor vehicles, from the smallest cars to the largest trucks, for the dance of incompetence and cheap partisan politics engaged in by the general assembly during the recently adjourned session.

Big, lumbering trucks and buses, hammering the highways to pieces and endangering the lives and property of other users of the public thoroughfares, and which formerly paid as high as $1,125 for their tags, are getting them now at the same price as tags for the smallest and most inexpensive cars—$3.

It is an absurdity for which obstructive members of the state senate must bear full blame.

In his campaign addresses the governor declared in favor of a $3 tag tax for passenger automobiles. The state convention unanimously endorsed the proposal.

Then the legislature met and from the very beginning the house and senate wrangled over this license fee, the house standing by the $3 tag rate and the senate refusing to do so.

In order to bring the wrangle to an end, and that the legislature might be able to proceed in a more orderly manner towards the performance of its vitally important duties, the governor made known to the senate he would approve a bill fixing the license tax for smaller cars, in use generally by farmers and laboring men, at $3, with a graduated scale covering heavier vehicles, with the highest limit on heavy trucks.

The senate was urged time and again to accept this settlement, but it had evidently made up its mind not to permit the governor to make good on his campaign pledge. It refused to concede an inch, even in meeting the governor's offer to accept a scale which would have put the most expensive cars and buses and trucks on a much higher level than that fixed for the small cars.

So the general assembly adjourned without action.

The governor had no other alternative than to meet his campaign pledge and the mandate of the state convention by declaring a flat $3 rate for all motor vehicles.

The governor and his supporters in the house agreed to meet the senate halfway, the senate refused to concede to the governor's demand for a $3 price for the smaller cars, and the result is the present monstrosity, directly due to legislative incompetency and petty politics.

THE BEER BILL.

The beer bill, passed by both houses of congress and now before the president for his signature, will prove helpful as a revenue-producing measure and in putting hundreds of thousands of men back to work, but is only a step in the right direction so far as the solution of the prohibition farce is concerned.

In Georgia the bill means nothing except that beer will be bootlegged, just as is now the case with intoxicants and will be dispensed without regulation or taxation.

Congress authorizes the sale of beer on the ground that it is non-intoxicating, and therefore not in conflict with the eighteenth amendment, and yet prohibits its importation into "dry" states.

It is not surprising that Senator Borah, in citing the inconsistency of this provision, asks: "Upon what possible theory can you exclude beer from interstate commerce except on the theory it is intoxicating?"

The beer bill will bring in a large and much needed revenue to the federal government and to the state and municipal governments in those states in which its sale will be permitted.

The other states will get beer all the same—but untaxed and unregulated.

The only real solution of the problem rests in the repeal of the abominable eighteenth amendment—and that is undoubtedly on the way. State after state has acted to submit a referendum to the vote of the people, and every indication is that within two years' time this relic of fanaticism will be laid in its grave.

The sooner this is accomplished, the better off the country will be, for the eighteenth amendment has done more to foster crime, create disrespect for the law and break down good government than any other legislation enacted in the history of the government.

Genuine progress towards real temperance was being made at the time the eighteenth amendment was forced on the people. Saloons were being abolished by strict regulation and high license fees and drunkenness was under better control than in a half century.

GEORGIA HALL—AT WARM SPRINGS.

Announcement of a campaign to raise a fund of $100,000, through subscriptions by citizens of Georgia, for the erection of a new building at Warm Springs to take the place of the antiquated Inn which has stood for nearly a half century, is contained in a news story appearing elsewhere in this issue of The Constitution.

At the suggestion of Cator Woolford, of Atlanta, a committee was named some time ago to raise the money and direct the construction of the proposed building. Cason J. Callaway, of the Callaway Mills, LaGrange, was named chairman and under his leadership preliminary plans for the subscription campaign have been completed, architects' plans for the building prepared, and estimates of costs obtained.

The historic old Inn at Warm Springs has long outlived its usefulness, lacking modern conveniences and is now in a dilapidated condition.

The replacement of this old structure with a new, modern and architecturally beautiful building is contemplated as an expression of the appreciation of the people of Georgia to Franklin D. Roosevelt for the creation of the Warm Springs Foundation. Since the memorial was launched and operating long before he was mentioned for the presidency, the building will be a tribute to his efforts as a private citizen.

Under the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt the fame of the health-restoring waters of this Georgia spa has been spread to the four corners of the earth, and to it have come patients from all parts of the world.

So close to President Roosevelt's heart is this institution that it is certain that no step could be taken by the state which has adopted him as a citizen that would win from him warmer appreciation than the erection of an up-to-date building as the centerpiece of the structures which have been erected by the Foundation.

Georgia owes a deep debt of gratitude to President Roosevelt for the service he has rendered the state through the development of Warm Springs and liberal and prompt contributions to the $100,000 fund will not only express that appreciation but the state's admiration for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Callaway is one of the state's leading captains of industry. The fact that the monument is to be directed by him, and the prominent Georgians who are members of the committee, is assurance that the project will be pushed to a successful conclusion.

Shade of Washington! Experts called Zangara "irresponsible" because he was "incapable of telling anything but the truth."

You see, pioneers made America because they didn't wait for the government to pass a law abolishing Indians.

Speaking of state rights, you can't thumb your nose at a rich man if you eat his bread.

Why this scorn of government? Well, nothing seems very impressive if you see too much of it.

Ladies, take warning. The most men see of law, the less they respect it.

Those people who clamor for a dictator evidently want one whose initials aren't J. P. M.

Alas! The army of homeless boys includes a lot who are still at the old place.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN.

British Fascists.

Sir Oswald Mosley, as head of the British union of fascists, has planned a spring "offensive" on industrial England. During the winter months an intensive recruiting campaign is going on in London and this campaign will be extended to the rural regions when the sun begins to shine. They wear no uniforms yet, the British fascists, but they salute in the well-known Roman manner. In Holland a similar organization has sprung up and its members are accounted along the lines of Mussolini's Blackshirts. In France the fascist organization has dwindled down to a mere handful. They were the Blueshirts led by Georges Sorel, a socialist, who was the king of France, it is said. The absence in France of fascist shock-battalions does not mean that there are not many influential politicians who share the views of Mussolini on the need of a corporate state. Fascism is not only shouting and parading, it has an ideology which seeks to eliminate the contrasts in society by subjecting all political parties to one and to have this one party run the state. The instrument to reach this state of affairs is force.

Hollywood's Dark Places.

Strong efforts are being made apparently—at least so far as bathrooms are concerned—to dampen that fierce white light of publicity which beats down on the Hollywood film star. The decorative order of the day for Hollywood bathrooms, we are now told, is "black bathtubs, inside and out, black-rimmed mirrors, black soap and black towels." It sounds like the kind of an apartment that would have pleased us immensely in days gone by when we came in from school and washing-up generally left tell-tale marks on the towels of the mischief we had been in. The Hollywood kids are to be envied!

September Morn.

An appeal to help find "September Morn," the nude bathing girl picture which shocked American moralists before the war, was made in Paris by Paul Chabas, the man who painted it. The canvas was sold in 1913 to a group of New York publishers, but they disposed of it again in the same year to Leon Mantcheff, the Russian oil magnate, who moved it to Moscow. What happened to it after the war and revolution is a mystery, Paul Chabas says. No doubt it hangs somewhere in a provincial gallery in Russia for the holocaustic government has taken excellent care of all paintings which they inherited from the czar and from private collectors and grouped them in the holocaustic government. The picture, valued at $100,000 in royalties, is valued from $2,000 to $50,000 because of the discussion it provoked when it was brought to the U. S. A. The model, 17 years old when the picture was made, was not a professional model. She is today the wife of a well-to-do businessman and is the mother of two children. Nobody sees anything objectionable in the picture today, but when it first became known, there was a fine old rumpus. We live and learn. (Copyright, 1933, by The Constitution.)

Frost Will Greet Early Birds Today

A frosty morn in Dixie will greet early risers today, but the weather will warm up to more comfortable levels during the day, according to Observer George W. Bennett.

The day will be fair, with temperatures ranging from 35 to 56-58 degrees. Mr. Minding said, Tuesday's temperatures rose from 34 to 45 degrees.

Although frost is expected, little damage will result to budding shrubs and flowers. The strong, gusty March wind from the west, which howled along at the rate of 20 to 24 miles an hour Tuesday, is expected to die down during the night.

After today, warming conditions should set in, it was said. During the day, the weather, scarcely seen snow were reported Tuesday morning in Atlanta, but the weather man said that there was not enough snow to warrant a forecast of the presence of snow at this time of the year is not at all unusual, as heavy snows have been recorded later in the season.

Any Little Nation Can Whip a Big One if the Big One Waits

For Somebody To Save It

By Robert Quillen

Today there are millions of Americans, rich and poor alike, who sit with folded hands and patiently wait for something to happen. A few rare and restless spirits are pacing the floor like caged creatures from the jungle, but the quiet millions resignedly await the will of destiny. Something placed them where they are; now let it come back and move them.

The situation isn't new. The safe and sane people who compose the majority have very little part in shaping their lives. They merely adjust themselves to their environment and follow the sign posts.

The daring pioneers were a different minority, the majority always waited at home until the Indians were killed and roads built.

The ordinary citizen isn't captain of his soul or a maker of opportunities. His religion and his politics and his prejudices were absorbed from his early environment. His life is one that chance offered. His mate is one that circumstance selected from the group of ten he was permitted to know. His friendship grew without design.

No detail of life is a choice. At no time did he examine the world in its contents, consult his taste and his reason, and pick the one thing in all the earth that pleased him best.

From the beginning he ate what was set before him, took what was offered, followed the way of least resistance, drifted with the current. If there were no strawberries on the table, he took the largest prune. And then he developed the prune habit and told his children he didn't believe in strawberries.

It is a wonder that mediocre men get somewhere if they know where they are going.

Roosevelt—the Teddy one—said he was merely an ordinary man who worked at it harder than others.

Within the memory of middle-aged men we have had three presidents who were professional public servants. In their youth they chose politics as a career and set out to climb. They reached the White House because of a promise made to a man who knows where he is going.

There isn't much competition for a man who knows where he is going. The others are just waiting for a ride. And they are willing to go where the train goes if somebody else will drive the engine.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

SOME PATIENTS LIKE THE OLD SPANISH METHOD.

In our referendum on tonsil removal, we were asked to vote in favor of the old standard surgical tonsillectomy (with guillotine and snare, or scissors or scalpel or finger dissection) under general anesthesia or local anesthesia.

It may be of interest to quote comments made by some of these.

I had quincy each winter for 11 years. I was finally cured by the Spanish method. I had tonsils cut out. There was never any return of quincy after that, and no throat trouble at all. Four others in my family have had their tonsils removed. The old method. Three had satisfactory results. My husband still has an occasional sore throat. (C. E.)

I had suffered from frequent attacks of sore throat. My doctor kept telling me I should have my tonsils removed. I kept putting it off till a particularly severe attack.

I had a tonsillectomy. The operation was done with a guillotine and snare method under a local anesthetic. I call it a work of art. . . . What I like is that it is done at once and there is no pain. It was a snap. My doctor now and I have never had any throat trouble since. (W. B.)

I can't imagine anyone paying $50 for the removal of tonsils. I had my tonsils out by the "Spanish" method. Certainly it was crude and painful, but it took less than two seconds. There was no anesthesia. I was awake. It cost me just $3. I went right home and nursed a sore throat for the rest of the afternoon. That's all. (C. G.)

All of these opinions seem fair enough, except the last. Certainly no surgeon could possibly remove tonsils in two seconds. Perhaps C. G. had what was known as tonsillotomy, rather than tonsillectomy. Tonsillectomy is the removal of tonsils cut out of rather than tonsil cut out. Tonsillectomy was done with an ingenious implement called tonsillotome. Needless to explain it is different from the guillotine and snare method used in a local anesthetic. I call it a work of art. . . . What I like is that it is done at once and there is no pain. It was a snap. My doctor now and I have never had any throat trouble since. (W. B.)

I can't imagine anyone paying $50 for the removal of tonsils. I had my tonsils out by the "Spanish" method. Certainly it was crude and painful, but it took less than two seconds. There was no anesthesia. I was awake. It cost me just $3. I went right home and nursed a sore throat for the rest of the afternoon. That's all. (C. G.)

All of these opinions seem fair enough, except the last. Certainly no surgeon could possibly remove tonsils in two seconds. Perhaps C. G. had what was known as tonsillotomy, rather than tonsillectomy. Tonsillectomy is the removal of tonsils cut out of rather than tonsil cut out. Tonsillectomy was done with an ingenious implement called tonsillotome. Needless to explain it is different from the guillotine and snare method used in a local anesthetic. I call it a work of art. . . . What I like is that it is done at once and there is no pain. It was a snap. My doctor now and I have never had any throat trouble since. (W. B.)

SENATORS CHANGE HOUSE BANK BILL

Modifications Designed To Facilitate Reorganization of Industries.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—The senate banking committee today favorably reported a substitute for the house-approved state bank relief measure with changes designed to facilitate reorganization of closed banks.

Chairman Fletcher said Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, would bring up the measure in the senate tomorrow and predicted its early approval.

As it came from the house, the bill would permit state banks and trust companies outside the federal reserve system to borrow from the federal reserve banks on "acceptable" collateral and with the approval of state banking departments.

The senate banking committee added three amendments to the measure, one extending to the territories and the District of Columbia.

A second amendment, sponsored by Senator Bulkley, democrat, Ohio, would permit banks undergoing reorganization to issue notes and debentures instead of preferred stock in states where the latter is required to carry double liability.

The third amendment was of a minor nature.

La. Opens State Banks Without Restriction

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—(AP)—All state banks in Louisiana were today directed to reopen tomorrow morning on an unrestricted basis in a proclamation issued this afternoon by J. S. Brock, state bank commissioner.

Commissioner Brock's proclamation superseded previous orders early in the week directing the state banks to reopen on a restricted withdrawal basis. He said today's order was issued because "fear and panic seem to have passed."

JURY TAKES NO ACTION IN DEATH OF TERRELL

The March term Fulton grand jury Tuesday took no action on a new involuntary manslaughter bill drawn against Garfield Towers, a negro, whose car is alleged to have struck that of Fire Chief John Terrell in February resulting in injuries from which Chief Terrell died.

Last week's jury returned a no-bill against Towers, but it was said to have been a clerical error in that the jury voted a true bill. However, when a new bill was drawn Tuesday so that the error believed to have been made could be adjusted, the jury refused to act on it. Orders were issued from the solicitor's office that Towers be released from Fulton tower under $1,000 bond until the May term grand jury meets, when the bill will be presented again, it was learned.

TALMADGE COMMUTES JOE GROVES' SENTENCE

Governor Talmadge Tuesday commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Joe Groves, Thomas county youth, who was scheduled to die in the electric chair at Milledgeville Monday. The governor said he felt the evidence on Groves, accused of killing Deputy Sheriff H. A. White in 1931, was insufficient to warrant the death penalty.

The governor acted after hearing a plea for Groves filed by Harry Strozzer and Paul Connaway, Milledgeville lawyers. J. R. Moseley, Macon, welfare worker, and H. H. Merry, Thomasville lawyer.

Grizzard Sales School Praised Highly by Automobile Dealer

Ernest G. Beaudry, one of the leading Atlanta Ford dealers, addressed the letter printed below to Vernon T. Grizzard, head of the Grizzard School of Salesmanship, who is to conduct the special-sales training school Monday through Friday, April 3-7, at the Wesley Memorial auditorium, being sponsored by The Constitution, and open to all salespeople of Atlanta.

The letter follows:

"Mr. Vernon T. Grizzard, Atlanta, Georgia.

"Dear Mr. Grizzard:

"Although some six weeks have passed since the closing of your salesmanship school for the Atlanta Ford dealers, I feel that I should say to you that our 15 employees, including salesmen and department heads, as well as myself, have been greatly benefited by the instructions given and the fundamentals of salesmanship and personal development dealt with in your course.

"I feel no hesitancy in recommending to any salesman or group of salesmen, as well as executives in charge of business, this course of training as a means of improvement to the individual and an increase in sales.

"With kindest personal regards, I am very truly yours,

"ERNEST G. BEAUDRY.

"February 25, 1933."

One of the practical features of Mr. Grizzard's system of instruction is his use of illustrative charts. In the school recently conducted at the Wesley Memorial auditorium under the auspices of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, attended by nearly 600 salespeople, his lecture lessons were graphically illustrated by blackboard drawings, for the special use of the coming school an entirely new set of charts printed in large type so that they will be easily discernible from all parts of the auditorium.

The Constitution's offer of three cash prizes of $20, $10 and $5 for the three best outlines of the course submitted at the close of the school has aroused considerable interest, and it is predicted that there will be a lively contest on the part of the students of the school to win the prizes and the honor that will be attached to the achievement.

Open to all salespeople of Atlanta.

ERNEST G. BEAUDRY.

and others who contact the public in any capacity, the course, which ordinarily costs from $10 to $25 per person, through the co-operation of The Constitution, is being made available at a nominal registration fee of $2—the only cost incident to enrollment for the entire school.

Tickets may be obtained at the office of The Constitution, or the coupon printed below can be used. Clip it, attach your check for $2 and mail to The Constitution. An admission ticket covering the entire five nights will be mailed to you promptly.

Close Guard Thrown About Trial Of Briton in Military Secret Sale

LONDON, March 21.—(AP)—All through this afternoon the doors of the hall at the Duke York's military school in Chelsea, where Lieutenant Norman Baillie-Stewart is being tried on charges of revealing military secrets, were closed and guarded.

Secret witnesses were giving evidence. Some of these witnesses are foreign subjects and, according to the prosecution, their lives might be jeopardized if their names were published.

Only once during the afternoon were the doors opened and then two women came out and drove away in a taxicab. One of them was weeping.

At a public session of the trial this morning, counsel for the young lieutenant intimated that third degree methods had been used in the investigation.

Lieutenant Colonel F. N. Syms, who conducted the preliminary questioning of the accused officer, denied that anything resembling the third degree had been used and said that Lieutenant Baillie-Stewart had not even been cross-examined.

The lieutenant colonel asserted he did not believe Lieutenant Baillie-Stewart's explanation that 90 pounds ($311) he admitted receiving from Berlin resulted from a liaison he had with a young woman.

"I thought he was putting me off with this story simply to gain time," the lieutenant colonel said. He added that he had not been able to obtain any details which would have made it possible to check the story. The prosecution contends that this money was in payment for military secrets divulged by the lieutenant to a foreign agent, and that these secrets would have been valuable to an enemy country.

DECATUR BANK GROUP RE-ELECTS DIRECTORS

Re-election of the board of directors of the Decatur Developing Company, liquidating agents of the Decatur Bank and Trust Company, featured the annual meeting Tuesday night at the DeKalb county courthouse. Reports showed that the bank has assets exceeding by $33,000 the total deposits, according to J. W. Battle, treasurer.

The bank, which closed in January, 1931, has been operating at a profit under the directorship of the Decatur Developing Company, the stockholders of which were elected from among the depositors, it was said. It will continue to operate, and every depositor will be paid 100 per cent, according to Mr. Battle. Directors are August Sams, president; Louis Estes, Scott Candler, J. J. Scott and Luther H. Randall.

HOOVER IN CALIFORNIA FOR 'LONG, LONG REST'

Friends Greet Former President on Arrival to West Coast Home.

PALO ALTO, Cal., March 21.—(AP) Free of the presidency's responsibility, ceremony and service cordon, Herbert Hoover came home today, received the greetings of friends and neighbors and announced he was going to take "a long, long rest."

He was a different Herbert Hoover than the tired, responsibility-ridden executive that Palo Alto saw last fall when he came here at the close of his campaign to vote. He smiled, spoke a few words of appreciation for the quiet reception given him answered questions, posed for news photographers, and shook hands with many well-wishers.

Arriving in Oakland by rail from Chicago, Mr. Hoover was met by friends and republican leaders and driven to Palo Alto, scene of the reception. There was a brief speech by Earl C. Thomas, mayor of Palo Alto, that ended with:

"We are proud to have you here. That's good of you," the former president replied. "It is indeed a great pleasure to come home. For 10 years I have been going away from California rather than coming back. Now I hope to reverse that."

From the Palo Alto community house, where the reception ceremony took place, Mr. Hoover and the official party were driven to his residence on San Juan Hill, an eminence of the Stanford University campus. Mrs. Hoover, who arrived two days ago, met them at the door. The welcoming delegation departed in a few minutes and Mr. Hoover surrendered for a few minutes to reporters and news cameramen.

To the reporters he said:

"I think I'm entitled to have some time to myself. I have no more how long he expected to stay. Mr. Hoover said:

"I hope to remain for the next 20 years."

54th Anniversary Is Observed By George Muse Clothing Co.

Quietly, without visible celebration, the George Muse Clothing Company, one of the largest of its kind in the southeast, on Tuesday celebrated its 54th anniversary as a clothing concern.

The late George Muse established the store in a small location on Whitehall street on March 21, 1879, and veteran executives and employees recalled the company's expansion since that date. In 1903 it moved to a three-story building at 3-5-7 Whitehall street, at the viaduct.

Outgrowing that location, its next move was to 52 Peachtree street, its present location, a seven-story building at Peachtree, Walton and Broad streets. This was in 1921, when other departments were added, including women's ready-to-wear, millinery, lingerie and hosiery. The expansion continuing, the company opened a branch store in the Henry Grad hotel.

Many items now carried were introduced by the company to Atlanta years ago. These include Hickey-Freeman clothes, Alfred Deck and Cohn's Society Brand clothes, Manhattan shirts, Johnson and Murphy shoes and Dobbs hats.

J. Harry Alexander, the present head, started with the George Muse clothing company as a salesman on April 1, 1895, advancing through various positions as bookkeeper, collector, credit manager, secretary and treasurer, to the presidency, succeeding in that position the late W. W. Orr, who died in 1927. Mr. Orr had served as president since 1917, following the death of Mr. Muse.

Other officers of the company are

J. HARRY ALEXANDER.

Oby T. Brewer and Nesbit Tilly, vice presidents; John J. Vogel, treasurer; Robert T. Sterrett, assistant treasurer, and Ed S. Thompson, secretary, all of whom have been with the company for many years.

Funeral services were arranged today for Ulmer Forester, 25, a passenger who was injured fatally when the plane wrecked.

ZANGARA IS BURIED IN PRISON CEMETERY

Brief Rites Close State's Case Against Assassin of Cermak.

RAIFORD Fla., March 21.—(AP) In a brief, simple service, Giuseppe Zanzara, the assassin, who was electrocuted for the murder of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, was buried today in "Gopher Hill," the small cemetery at the state prison farm here.

A rumbling truck carried the body from the prison hospital to the burial ground, where the rough pine casket was lowered into the grave by six guards.

The Rev. L. O. Sheffield, prison chaplain, read a brief Scripture and prayer as the state officially closed its case against the Italian immigrant who mortally wounded Mayor Cermak and shot three other persons in an unsuccessful attempt to kill President Roosevelt at Miami February 15.

Assailing "capitalists" to the last, and with his only regret that cameramen were not permitted to photograph him in the electric chair, Zanzara paid with his life for the crime in the death chamber yesterday, 33 days after the shooting occurred.

$6,000 Theft.

Tag War Looms as Mobile Gendarmes Threaten Reporters' Cars

This is not to be construed as one of those open letter things which the sports writers now and then address to various people when they can think of nothing at all to serve as a subject. It is, nevertheless, an appeal to Governor Eugene Talmadge to declare war on Alabama. It seems that the constabulary of Mobile have put the blast on the Atlanta visitors there who have Georgia tags with the 1932 figures on them.

The first one to go was Mr. William Daly, the trainer. Mr. William Daly was chugging his car toward the ball park when the law put the sleeve on him and hauled him away to the calaboose.

The others, forewarned, slipped their 1932 cars and tags into the garage. (There is a garage in Mobile, isn't there?)

The gendarmes have posted guards about the garage and as soon as the baseball reporters go for their cars the gendarmes are going to put the blast on them and put the cars in the pound.

I do not see how the baseball reporters are going to get out of Mobile. They have none of the $3 tags. And if they were here they could not get the tags. As the paper went to press the crowd seeking tags had spread to Ponce de Leon avenue and airplanes were flying over the crowd dropping bags of food to the survivors who had got in line at dawn only to find themselves a half mile from the windows.

There seems to be a violation of state's rights in this and I hope that open warfare is declared on Alabama. If we wish to go without tags it is our business and not that of Alabama.

I hope they feed old Doctor Daly well. He is a man who likes to give that knife and fork, particularly the fork, a good strong play about five times a day with a few barbecue sandwiches thrown in between.

The Mobile constabulary is very courteous and very truthful. I cannot imagine them becoming so tough with the Cracker visitors. Last fall, on a football trip, the lady who was driving me, stopped the car in Mobile about 2:30 in the afternoon.

"Where is a good restaurant?" we asked a member of the force.

"Let me see," he mused, thinking carefully and evidently in doubt. "There is a cafeteria down the street about two blocks from here."

At the cafeteria there was a fellow mopping the floor who said it would open again at 6 o'clock.

So we rode past 19 Bar-B-Cue stands and the 20th one said "Barbecue" so we stopped there.

Meanwhile the victims of the Mobile tag law are in jeopardy. Let's have war.

KLEINHANS WELL LIKED.

Mr. Charley Moore, the rosy-cheeked young Romeo who manages the Atlanta Crackers, thinks that Hans Kleinhaus, the Scandinavian pitcher on his team, is perhaps an answer to the pitching prayer.

Mr. Jimmy Jones, in reporting this estimate, declared the Cracker batters could not hit the Scandinavian in batting practice. In the same story, however, there was a report that Mr. Moore considered his batters to be very terrible batters indeed and had ordered an extra chore for them at the plate. This, however, was not to be taken as a reflection on Hans Kleinhaus.

Pitching is the department which needs most attention and one need not be surprised most any day to find new pitchers added to the list of those who will present the local acts in the national game this summer.

Manager Moore seems determined to give the Cracker fans a new deal. This seems to be the only phrase which will express anything in the year of 1933. The few visits which Charley Moore made to Atlanta made him determined to do something about the local situation, even if he had to purchase an atomizer. Mr. Moore has a sensitive back. A most sensitive one. On his first visit to the local park he sniffed with a look of pain on his face. "What is that most unusual odor?" he asked.

"That is the local baseball situation," said a baseball reporter, in that crude manner which the movie newspaper actors have made familiar to all screen addicts. And so, Mr. Moore determined then and there to do something about it, even if he had to use atomizers. But he knows that pitchers and hitters will do even better than atomizers.

Hans Kleinhaus will be one of his best pitchers. He is a Class B man who can go in there and take his turn in the box. Most Class B pitchers, and some of the A ones, keep managers on tenterhooks.

Kleinhaus permits the manager to lean back on the bench and enjoy his scrap tobacco.

NEW DEAL DECREASES VOCABULARIES.

The new deal for the Crackers, however, is having an alarming and most harmful effect in so far as the vocabulary of the average Atlantian is concerned.

The Cracker baseball situation for the past few years had come to be the greatest inspiration to the increase of new adjectives in one's vocabulary the city had had.

No one ever spoke of the Crackers without using three or four adjectives. Finally it came to be that the fans stopped and thought up adjectives. It got so that a good, ardent fan, wishing to express himself, placed eight or ten adjectives in front of the word—Crackers.

Some of them were the most picturesque, florid, burning and vitriolic imaginable. What adjectives! Such expression! What fervor! Vivid imagination! The average fan always started his conversation about the Crackers about as follows:

"Those . . . . . Crackers."

And his companion would answer, "You are right."

Those . . . . . Crackers

should be tossed out of the league."

I do not put the adjectives down, because some of them seem to have been copyrighted and I do not wish to infringe on any copyrights. Let it suffice to say that the Cracker fans could out-adjective a marine, a mule skinner, and sometimes a golfer who has just missed a one-foot putt.

It is very distressing that the new deal has handicapped and delayed the development of vocabularies.

SITTING ON THEIR HANDS.

The fans have ceased to use their pretty adjectives but they are still sitting on their hands. They are waiting to be shown.

And, after all, that is fair enough. Charley Moore, I am sure, will show them a team that will cause them to get off their hands and slap them vigorously. Charley Moore is dependable that way.

There is a drive to be started soon to get out a crowd for opening day, which will be "Uncle Robby Day" in honor of Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, the president of the club. There is a desire on the part of the new Cracker officials, who are trying to put on a new deal for the fans, to have the Crackers referred to as "The New Crackers."

The fans were tired of the old ones anyway.

CRACKER FIRST TEAM TO PLAY SOLONS TODAY

Hasty Will Pitch and Phillips Will Catch Seven Innings.

Robby Planning To Trade Bonowitz

MOBILE, March 21.—Uncle Wilbert Robinson was in Montgomery last night conferring with Mike Kelly of Minneapolis, regarding the trade of Joe Bonowitz for a pitcher.

If the deal culminates, it is expected to be announced today.

By Jimmy Jones.

MOBILE, Ala., March 21.—Another look at his regulars under fire will be had by Manager Charley Moore tomorrow in Biloxi, Miss., when he sends his complete first team to play the fourth game of the series with Washington.

Moore announced tonight that he would start Bob Hasty, who is the best shape of all his pitchers, against young Joe Cronin's outfit and that Eddie Phillips, his first-string receiver, will catch at least seven innings. His regular infield of Susko, Dashiell, Chatham and Rollings, which has been shaping up fine, will also start, with Art Weis playing right field. Durr McKee center and Sington left.

The Crackers will make the jaunt to Biloxi by bus for their only important game of the week. They play games with semi-pro nines here Friday and Sunday.

ROBBY LEAVES.

President Robinson, confident that Manager Moore has the Crackers making all the progress possible, left here today for Atlanta, there to locate an apartment for himself and Ma Robinson. He stopped off in Montgomery, where the Minneapolis Millers, American association champions, are in training. Robby said he would look over the Miller squad in practice and while not looking for players may spot a pitcher or so that might help the Crackers. Dave Bancroft, Minneapolis manager, and Robby are old friends of National league days.

Before leaving here Robby announced that he had offered Babe Phelps, holdout first baseman, to the Albany, International league, club on trial but that he has not heard from Joe Cambria the Albany manager, as yet. He expects Cambria to accept the offer of Phelps on this basis.

About the most interesting bit of news about camp today was that Johnny Cummings, popular ex-Vanderbilt athlete, has succeeded in catching on with Bert Niehoff's club and left this afternoon for Chicago, where he is in training at Selma. Cummings, one of the best liked boys on the squad, won Niehoff's liking by hitting a flock of home runs down in Selma, where he went with the Chattanooga team after the Dixie series last fall.

TO KEEP BARRON.

Moore hinted to let Cummings go, but there was no place for either him or Jim Bryan on the roster. Red Barron is almost certain to be kept around this year to be ready for emergency duty if Wais fails to come back or one of the youngsters, McKee or Sington, should hit a slump. The club still owns Joe Bonowitz, too, and he may win a position by the time the club has played its nine exhibitions in Atlanta.

Moore has about decided on Leonard Mayo, an Atlanta boy, and Ted Kleinhaus, southern boy, as his two most likely Class B pitchers, and since there is room for another, Hugh Casey, Archie Wise or May Butcher may make the third roster position open. It's all according to how they look. Moore believes his club will be in shape by opening day and that it will get a good start, since his pitchers are rounding into form rapidly.

Toppino Is Third In Canadian Race

TORONTO, Ont., March 21.—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University negro, flashed on the 60-yard sprint title of the Canadian indoor track and field championships here tonight and avenged an early-season defeat by the southern flyer, Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans.

Metcalfe flashed over the distance in six and two-tenths seconds to set up a new Canadian indoor record and nose out Ben Pearson, Haverhill schoolboy, and Toppino in a blanket finish.

Pearson placed second and Toppino third.

Reese and Bayne Sign With Chicks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—Andy Reese came in from Tupelo, Miss., today and signed a contract to play first base for the Memphis Chicks. President Thomas R. Watkins also signed Billy Bayne, southpaw hurler, later in the day. The signing of Bayne racially completes the roster.

Virlyn Moore To Play First As Fleming Leaves for Camp

ATHENS, Ga., March 21.—Ray Fleming, veteran first baseman of the Georgia Bulldogs, has left school to try out with the Toronto Leafs, of the International league, it was learned today. Manager Dan Howley, of Toronto, sent for Fleming last Friday and the Georgia star went to Augusta, where the Leafs are training.

Fleming is a senior. He has developed into a capable first baseman under the tutelage of Coach Bill White. Virlyn Moore Jr., Georgia basketball star, will play first base for the Bulldogs.

Judge Keneaw M. Landis has issued several warnings to professional clubs in the past forbidding the approaching of young college players while they are still in school. It is a vicious practice which interrupts education.

The Chattanooga club signed a Georgia Tech player last summer and Tech officials made a vigorous protest to the baseball commissioner. Nothing was done.

MILO STEINBORN MEETS HEWITT HERE TONIGHT

Garibaldi, Marvin Clash in Mat Semi-Final at Auditorium.

It will be the rope-strangle of Whitey Hewitt, Canadian wild man, against the bear hug of Milo Steinborn, German strong man, in the two-hour feature match of Henry Weber's weekly wrestling card at the auditorium tonight, and opinion among Atlanta fans is sharply divided as to which hold will prove the more potent weapon of attack.

Both Hewitt and Steinborn have been impressive in recent appearances here, the former subduing Harper, Zarnos and Marvin and losing only to Garibaldi on a foul, while the latter staged a magnificent battle against the great Pete Sauer and then dispatched Blue Sun Jennings, the Cherokee, in easy fashion. The duel of the liveliest tussles of the season, Steinborn has been here since Saturday working out for the match, while Hewitt is expected in today from Memphis.

Adding interest to the show tonight will be the one-hour limit semi-final which brings together Garibaldi, the supple Italian who holds the championship of his native land, and Chief Tom Marvin, Osage Indian. The red man, because of his celebrated chin lock, has always been dangerous on attack and demonstrated last week when for a full hour he foiled Paul Jones' best efforts to apply a hook scissors, that he is much improved as a defensive wrestler.

A 15-minute preliminary between local middleweights will open the card promptly at 8:15 o'clock. At Steinborn's request, no action has been taken to bar Hewitt from using his "hangman's noose" in the main event tonight. The Canadian husky "knows the ropes" better than any man who has ever appeared here, and has never failed to punish his opponents severely with his favorite hold, if it can be called. Milo is confident, however, that his marvelous physical strength will enable him to escape Whitey's grip before it can do serious damage, and apply his own bear hug.

Doors at the auditorium will be thrown open at 6:45 o'clock but, in order to avoid congestion, fans are urged by Matchmaker Weber to purchase their tickets in advance today either at the Miner & Carter Drug Company or at the Piedmont Hatters.

ORCUTT WINNER IN MEDAL RUND

PINEHURST, N. C., March 21.—(AP)—Maureen Orcutt was the only golfer able to master a 20-mile-an-hour wind in the north and south women's tournament today, and she not only won the medal with a corking 78, but got off to a running start in her quest for her second consecutive Pinehurst title.

The remainder of the more or less hectic afternoon was a second round fiddle to the wind which swept over the difficult No. 3 course, leaving scores sky-high and galleries small. The Englewood (N. J.) veteran was the only one of 60 starters to crack 80, and but six of the remainder posted scores under 90.

The day's big disappointment was Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, co-star with Miss Orcutt in the Florida tournaments and her opponent in the north and south finals last year. Handicapped both by the wind and a recalcitrant putter which flatter refused to perform on the famous Pinehurst sand greens, Mrs. Hill had to be content with a 92.

Florida Beaten By Georgia Four

ATHENS, Ga., March 21.—The University of Georgia polo team, making its opening bid for southern college honors, defeated the University of Florida four, 10 to 1, here this afternoon in the first of a two-game series, the second game to be played Wednesday afternoon.

Led by the veteran Ed Downs, playing No. 2 position, and Bill Wooten at No. 3, the Bulldogs took the lead during the first half, when they Florida threatened only once and that was in the second chukker when Lazonby, Florida's No. 2 player, tied the score with a long goal from the field.

Downs and Wooten starred for Georgia with three goals each, although Captain Crozier Wood played a splendid game. Lazonby, veteran Florida player, was best for the "Gators."

THE SUMMARY.

Smithie Wrestlers

Smith and Runyan Like His Style; Hits Long Ball.

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Charlie Yates, the Atlanta youngster who impressed the golf critics with his play in the national amateur championship last summer, drew praise from the professionals for his work in the Johnny Radium Springs open tournament at Albany, Ga.

Playing the course for the first time in this tournament competition, Yates carved out three rounds for a total of 225 to win amateur honors. Par for this sporty layout is a fairly difficult 72 and on his first two rounds Yates had 73 and 74. The final round was played as a stiff cross-wind cut across the course and Yates' score jumped to 78.

STEADY GAME.

Although he played with Horton Smith, one of the best, Yates did not have stage fright and played steadily for his first 73. He was par through the 14th, but an over-played pitch on the 15th cost him a stroke. Meanwhile, Smith was scoring a record-breaking 66.

Horton, as likable fellow as can be found among the professionals, took an interest in Yates and coached him on his short game. Smith complimented Yates on his long drives and approaches. The "Joplin Ghost" also noted Yates had the right golf temperament, an important factor in championship play.

After watching Yates blast one off the tee, Paul Runyan observed he had an almost perfect stance and his follow-through was well executed. Spectators noted Smith took twice as long to "line up" his putt and stroke the ball than did Yates. The Atlanta youth, who twice has won the Georgia Amateur, has the same idea about putting as old Alex Smith. That veteran of early American golf said: "Step up and hit 'em."

STARS BALL.

Yates almost stole the ball. He tried for a while to slow up his putting and try to sweep the ball along, but found he had better success by striking it boldly.

Other amateurs were unable to make much of a showing in this tournament, although Dan Sage Jr., of Atlanta, and Johnny Mier, of Birmingham, had fair success. Morris, the sensation of last summer's southern amateur championship, shot par golf until the 15th hole of the first round. Here errors in his short game cost him strokes and he ran into frequent trouble thereafter.

Two members of the Tech High football team, Norman Perry and Crenshaw Bonner, are shown during a workout of the Tech High wrestling team in the Henry Grady gymnasium. Bonner is throwing Perry over his shoulder with an arm hold. Many of the Smithie candidates are looking on in the background. More than 175 students are working daily in preparation for the elimination tournament slated to start within the next two weeks.

Here's Engel's Latest Idea To Stir Fans

Lookout Owner Wants To Smuggle in Mexican Outfielder; Old Fox Balks at Suggestion.

By Jimmy Jones.

MOBILE, Ala., March 21.—Clark Griffith, the old fox who owns and presides over the destinies of the Washington baseball club, is confident that in all his years as a baseball man he has never seen anyone quite the equal of Joe Engel, his head scout and boss of his club's minor league farm at Chattanooga.

"He can figure out more ways of making money and more ways of spending it than any man I ever saw," declared Mr. Griffith, who is quite a frugal soul, during a fanning bee with Atlanta newspapermen the other afternoon at Biloxi. The gentlemen of the press were putting in a plug for Engel, as most of them will do at the slightest opportunity, and telling you don't hear anything about."

Engel's latest idea, Mr. Griffith revealed, was to smuggle a Mexican outfielder named Gomez across the border. Joe, it develops, appealed to Mr. Griffith to use his influence with the Mexican ambassador in Washington to help get the outfielder out of that country.

OH, NO.

"Not on your life, I told him; I'm not going to get myself in a mess with the immigration officials over such a matter as a Mexican outfielder when there are more American-born outfielders looking for jobs than you can possibly hire," Mr. Griffith said, regarding Engel's appeal.

Now isn't that Engel all over. No doubt even now he has the Chattanooga fans wondering just what kind of bloke Gomez will be. He might be a pretty fair ball player or he might not be able to play ping pong, yet Engel wants it taken to the Mexican ambassador.

Joe Engel has had a girl pitcher, Jackie Mitchell. He has his famous colored orchestra. Last summer he exploited Duster Mails. Came 1933 and it seemed that there wasn't anything left for Engel to pull. Then he bobbed up with the Mexican outfielder.

Mr. Griffith was asked if he thought Engel would run out of ideas. And if the people of Chattanooga would ever grow tired of them.

"No sires," he stated. "Over there they are crazy about Joe, for he not only gives them a ball game to look at, but all the fun of a first-class circus."

RIOT IN MAJORS.

Engel, with his ideas, would be a riot in the big leagues, Griffith said. At least his presence there would be a relief from some of the stock stunts pulled by the club owners every spring, such as the perennial row between Ruth and Ruppert and the

NIEHOFF THINKS YOUNG PLAYER GOOD PROSPECT

Cracker, Released Monday, Starred for Bert in Fall Exhibition.

Johnny Cummings, the best young outfielder in the Southern association last season and released by the Crackers Monday, was signed by the Chattanooga club Tuesday.

Bert Niehoff, in signing Cummings, announced from his camp at Selma, Ala., that he believed the former Cracker to be a major league prospect.

HIT HARD.

Cummings played with Niehoff last fall on a barnstorming tour of Mexico with a team made up largely of the championship Lookouts. Cummings batted 500 on the tour.

Cummings is a natural hitter and had a good year with Atlanta. He is a Memphis boy and went to Vanderbilt University before entering professional baseball.

Cummings was named by the Chicago White Sox scout last summer as one of two Crackers whom he wished to purchase. The deal was all set but called off at the last moment because of lack of cash at Chicago for the purchase of the two men. The Crackers had given the Sox an option on the club's players.

AMONG CAST-OFFS.

Cummings was one of several players released by the Cracker management on Monday. Another cut in the squad is due next week.

Breaking California Red

By Zane Grey

The next day Ben took Modoc back to his Forlorn River ranch for the serious business of breaking the magnificent wild stallion, California Red. Blaine had offered ten thousand dollars for the horse, but it tore at Ben to part with him. Still, as Blaine had said, they would all be in the family. He would give Red to Ina, and--well, the ten thousand would certainly be a good start for a young wild horse wrangler about to be married.

Considering the spirit of the great stallion and his years of absolute mastery of the wild range, Ben believed that the task of breaking him would be the hardest in his experience--and he had broken literally hundreds of wild horses. With marvelous quickness he leaped into the saddle.

INSTALLMENT XX. That afternoon he went over to the houseboat with tribute; two eels in a bucket. Finding Mrs. Bayley alone--the boys and Alice had just gone up the hill--he approached her with his best company smile. She hadn't been particularly friendly last day and now he was looking down at him over the rail might have discouraged a less resolute spirit. "Hauled in a couple o' big ones for you this morning, Mrs. Bayley. Yes, yes." Holding up the two snake-like objects, still faintly squirming. The big ones is best, Mrs. Bayley, if you soak 'em in fresh water overnight. Sweet as a nut. "Thank you," she said without smiling. "How much a pound?" "O, that's all right, Mrs. Bayley. I just wanted to be neighborly." But it cut his pride, her asking to pay for his eels. He, who had been special eel provider for years. Then, because she turned to go into the cabin. "You'll be movin' into that fine house pretty soon, won't you, Mrs. Bayley?" "Yes, I think so. I'll take the big eel, Captain Love, but you must let me pay for it."

"O, that's all right," he repeated. Then cunningly blinking, "Mrs. Bayley, I wanted to talk a little business with you." She merely waited, gave him no help. "It's this way with me, I'm a pretty lonesome man, now my wife's gone. So I thought I'd marry

FRIENDLY COUNSEL.

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My best friend has gone back on me. For years I have told her every secret of my heart and now she has repented a story that I can never forgive her for repeating. She has seen the change in my attitude but when she asks me what the trouble is I tell her: "Nothing at all." I know I am sensitive and inclined to sulk rather than talk matters out when I misunderstand occurs. If I attempt to discuss this with my friend it will only end in a bigger row and I had rather withdraw quietly. Don't think I am right?

CATHARINE.

Answer: I think you are all wrong. The very fact that you have turned your friend enough to confide in her through the years is proof of the fact that you are wrong to put her out of your life without giving her a chance to explain her position. Even a murderer caught red-handed in his crime is not given a chance to tell his side of the story. The satisfaction of sulking is fleeting. The enjoyment of an attorney to help him put up the best defense he can. Surely a friend of years standing deserves no less than the murderer.

Many a friendship has survived the worst sort of shock because the parties had the good sense to talk over the misunderstanding. It cannot be done in temper, or matters are worsened. It cannot be done in a spirit of antagonism, or the breach is widened. It must be done in a spirit of calm and with a determined effort to get at the root of the trouble and eradicate it. The satisfaction of a healthy hate (if there be such a thing) is short-lived. The person who indulges in it is usually left with a sickening sensation, a spiritual nausea.

that weakens him in the morning and renders him sleepless at night. It is far better to get rid of it. But you cannot do it by yourself. You must have the help of the person who is partly responsible for it. And the only way to get it is to talk it out with that one.

You may not succeed in getting the friendship back to the old basis. You may get it on a better one. In either event you will have cleared the mind of the sickening sensation that the undigested episode has deposited in it. Occasionally you hear some self-righteous person remark that he is able to put some offending friend completely out of his thoughts, once he is convinced that the friend has injured him, or been neglectful of him, or underserving of his friendship. He hasn't finished. He is probably lying in wait to hit back. It may take a long time for the opportunity to come but he will be ready for it. Recently I heard a man make that remark about a former friend that had wronged him. He said: "My next breath he added, 'I'll get him yet. It may take a long time.'"

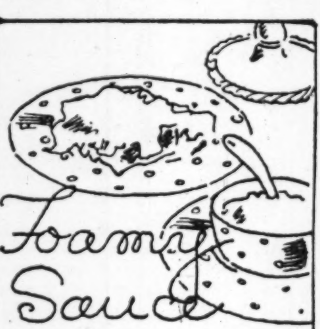

The conclusion of the whole matter is that we have a right to condemn what looks like dishonor or failure in a friend until we have given him the chance to explain, or justify his conduct. We cannot do this with his mind until he has shown it to us. We can't tell what sort of impression our conduct has made upon him until he has shown it to us. In the apparent failure of his friendship, it takes two to make a quarrel and it likewise takes two to make an agreement.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Such Fluffiness in Lois' Foamy Sauce.

BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

When Lois ate her luncheon at the tea shop she ordered a fresh rhubarb turnover with foamy sauce. When it came she was not sure she was going to like it.

The turnover was large, there was much crust and little rhubarb and the sauce seemed foamy enough, but full of uncooked egg.

She divided her choice had not been so good. Then when she went home she looked up the recipe for foamy sauce.

After reading it she said, "I wonder what that sauce would be most at home with? Certainly it does not belong on a rhubarb turnover."

She found that steamed pudding was often served with foamy sauce.

that apple brown betty was especially good with it. Plain, steamed batter with fruit in the bottom of the cup into which the batter had been poured before steaming were delicious with the sauce. But in all cases the sauces depended upon the correct making of the sauce.

Here's the method Lois found to be acceptable.

She melted one-half cup butter over hot water. She used the upper part of a double boiler. Then she added one cup of powdered sugar. When this was well blended she added a well beaten egg. To prepare this egg she had beaten the white first, and then folded into this the yolk.

This fluffy mass was beaten into the butter-sugar mixture and beaten while cooking over hot water for about three minutes. This cooked the egg enough to take away the raw taste, but not enough to make it tough or curdy. When this had cooled somewhat after removing from the hot water bath she added two teaspoons vanilla and a few specks of grated nutmeg. Or she omitted both nutmeg and vanilla and used three tablespoons fresh orange juice.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

A Perfect Count.

Caution in play is always a fine principle and many a Declarer can save himself points by merely looking out for every possible contingency. The hand below was played by Mr. Julian Barth of New York city, and while at first glance it seems simple enough, the fact remains that very few players would have been as careful in their plans as Mr. Barth was.

Mr. Barth

The bidding:

North 10
South 3NT

The bidding does not call for any comment, and naturally, West's Opening lead was the Queen of spades. East unhooked by playing the King and returned the low spade, which Declarer again passed. For lack of anything else to do, West returned the third spade, which Mr. Barth won with the Ace. Eight top tricks were apparent, and the ninth was possible through either a break in diamonds, a finesse in diamonds or a break in hearts. Mr. Barth's first play, therefore, was to lead a low heart and finesse the Ten in Dummy. East won with the Queen and returned the Queen of clubs, whereupon the Declarer made the one brilliant play of the hand. He allowed this card to hold, knowing that in this way he was certain of obtaining a perfect count on the West hand. When another club was returned he cashed 2 club tricks and 2 heart tricks, finding that the latter suit did not break. West, meanwhile, was having his difficulties and was forced to discard both of his good spades to protect his King. The count of diamonds. Consequently, with the count firmly in his mind, Mr. Barth led over to the Queen of diamonds and returned to the King in his own hand. It was a simple matter to place West with the remaining two diamonds, and consequently, the Ten was good for the twelfth trick and the Ace for the thirteenth.

The extremely careful play earned a just reward, but the hand is also interesting from another angle. Had Declarer found the four diamonds in the East hand and also four hearts, he would have assured himself of a perfect squeeze by passing the club. The hand belongs to that type which looks extremely simple but which is frequently abused.

AGED DOORKEEPER FOR LEGISLATURE LAMENTS PAY CUT

"Ten Cent Bill" Yopp, negro Confederate veteran who has been a doorkeeper for the legislature since the days of Governor Atkinson, learned to his utmost displeasure Tuesday that the legislature, which didn't cut its own pay and even voted itself mileage on a journey it couldn't possibly have taken, economized $70 on his salary.

"Look at it," "Ten Cent Bill" moaned as he showed his pay envelope, which contained $140. In previous sessions Bill has drawn $3 a day. This year he got $2.

"Tell me about the mileage thing," Bill urged. He was told that the legislature helped itself to $8,100 by voting mileage for its members on a synthetic trip home between the reorganization meeting which ended on the night of January 19 and the regular morning session which opened on the morning of January 20.

"I been servin' white folks for 75 years," 85-year-old Bill lamented, "and this is the first time they treated me wrong."

The double mileage increased the draft on the treasury for mileage from $8,100 to $16,200.

However, some of those members of the legislature who fought adoption of the resolutions so bitterly have refused to accept the mileage. These include Senators Carithers, of Windsor; Baggett, of Lawrenceville; Terrell, of LaGrange; and Morris, of Marietta, and Representatives Arnall and Dyer, of Coweta; and Daugherty, of Wilkes. Others have not yet drawn extra mileage but those have definitely refused to accept it.

INSURANCE DIVIDEND NOT HIT BY ORDER

Commenting on the order of the state superintendent of insurance regarding the declaration of dividends by domestic life insurance companies, Baggett, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, stated today:

"The order of the superintendent of insurance of the state of New York prohibiting life insurance companies from declaring any dividends to policyholders, expressly provides that it does not prevent the payment to policyholders of dividends which have already been declared by the board of directors. Such ruling does not, therefore, apply to the dividends of the New York Life Insurance Company during the year 1933 or to other life insurance companies whose dividends have already been declared for the year. New York Life policyholders may continue to use their dividends in reduction of premiums or otherwise as usual."

IT CAN BE DONE— ADVERTISING WILL DO IT

101 Broad St. SW
March 21, 1933

Mr. Julian Harris, Advertising Manager,
The Atlanta Constitution,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Harris:

We find it necessary to repeat this Thursday, Friday and Saturday the "NEW DEAL SALE" on the AMERICAN AGE HEAVY DUTY TIRES, as the eighteen inch advertisement which appeared last Thursday, March 16th, exclusively in The Constitution produced results far beyond our fondest expectations, and by Saturday noon we were practically 100% sold out.

Many came from a distance of 50 to 75 miles that we could not serve as their sizes were already sold out, so we wired the factory to rush another large shipment to be here by Thursday morning, March 23rd, so that we could repeat the advertisement and have enough tires for all who came.

Frankly, we had just about decided that advertising would not pay under the present business conditions, but after the results obtained by our advertisement in The Constitution, we KNOW DIFFERENT. We are now certain that with good merchandise properly advertised at LIVE AND LET LIVE PRICES, it will pay BIG.

Yours very truly,
